HISTORY

Central Mass Disposal, Inc. is a locally owned and operated waste services company with offices in Auburn, Rutland, and Palmer, Massachusetts. Jeff Hervey, President, started the company in 1995 with a single collection vehicle and a handful of customers. An acquisition of approximately 900 residential customers in Charlton was just the beginning of a steady growth pattern. Presently, they service over 40,000 residential customers, about 1,000 commercial customers, and thousands of roll off customers every month with a fleet of almost 60 state of the art collection vehicles. The management team carries well over 100 years of industry knowledge and expertise, which allows, prompt, safe, courteous, and reliable service.

ABOUT THE COMPANY

Central Mass Disposal, Inc. prides itself in providing unsurpassed quality and personal service, at the most efficient cost structure available. They have proven that there is a definite need for a company to be dedicated to complete and total customer satisfaction, and their growth and popularity in the waste industry has resulted from this commitment. Direct and precise communication and their overall industry experience most definitely provide Central Mass Disposal with a tremendous competitive edge over its competitors. The Central Mass Disposal team looks forward to including you to their ever-growing family of satisfied customers.
